Not on Preferred List, So Plant 95.98. May Get No Coal to Operate.

The conference which was held Friday afternoon with representatives of the Purity Extract and Tonic company and W. E. On the other hand it is understood that owing to the serious condition confronting this state in regard to the fuel situation it is undergard to the fuel situation it is undergard to the fuel situation it is under-stood that Mr. Myer offered the man-ager of the extract company no en-couragement as to his securing coal this winter. This company is not in-cluded on the fuel preference list, and can, therefore, not receive a supply of coal until those on the list have been supplied. As it is the manager states that they have very little coal on hand, only enough to run them several

The recent order issued by the fuel administration regarding the fuel supply to be issuel to berweries effects his concern. The drink known as 'Reif's special' is manufactured at this place, and recently has become quite a popular drink among the sol-

Mr. Myer is endeavoring to solve the fuel shortage in this state for the good of the public in general. He says that as every one knows the coal shortage as every one knows the coal shortage this year will be far greater than that of last year, it will, therefore, necessitate much more saving than last year. He has urged the people to lay in their winter's supply of coal early, but in doing this he has urged them to store away not one pound more than store away not one pound more t

A DOWNWARD TURN

New York, July 20.—There appeared to be more selling orders in the cotton mar-ket here today, and after opening at un-changed prices to an advance of 10 points prices broke quite sharply. There was talk of showers in Texas, while showers or rains reported elsewhere in the belt were considered favorable for plant growth, and the declines reported in southwestern spot markets late yesterday probably had some influence on sentiment. Wall street was an active seller on the break, and stop orders were uncovered sending October off to 25.02c, or about 41645 points net lower. Nervousness was probably increased by a possibility that the sinking of the San Diego had been the work of a submarine and confusing records from Washington as to confusing reports from Washington as to price-fixing proposals. There was a good deal of covering on the decline, however, and prices railied several points from the lowest before the end of the first hour. Trading was less active later in the morning, with prices steadier on the dry western belt forecast and covering. Oc-tober rallied from 25.02c and closed at 25.25c, with the general list closing steady at a net los of 8422 points.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON. NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

New Orleans, July 20.—Prices were 1 to 5 points higher on the opening call in cotton today, but soon after the market slumped on week-end evening up from the long side. At the end of the first half-hour of trading prices were 24631 points under the close of yesterday.

The stand taken by southern congressmen against price-fixing of cotton gave the market underlying steadness and stimulated more or less buying of a good characten. Toward the close the net decline was reduced to 10612 points.
